

AN AMERICAN WAR.

Insurrection in the Northwest Territory Assuming Grave Proportions.

Encounter Between the Rebels and the Authorities—Twelve of the Latter are Killed.

THE FIRST BLOODSHED.

STAWA, ONT., March 28.—In the course of common last night the following telegram from Lieut.-Col. Irwin to Sir John McDonald, dated March 28, was read by the premier: The party under my command has arrived at Fort Carlton. I have that Maj. Crozier, with a party of 100 had gone to Duck Lake to meet a quantity of supplies there. They were met by 100 rebels who held an advanced position at Beady's reserve. The force of police and civilians, endeavoring to surround Mr. Crozier, fired first. The firing began. Maj. Crozier retired in order, arriving at fort at the same time as my party. Ten civilians of the name of Albert and two policemen were killed and four civilians and several constables wounded. The number of rebels killed is not known. The police and civilians acted with greatest bravery under the heavy reading of the dispatch and intense excitement. Detachments of A and B batteries Kingston and Q-bec, the Queen's and the Tenth Royals of Toronto, and the infantry school under the command of Col. Otter, have received marching orders and will proceed via the Canadian Pacific railroad to the northwest without delay.

SERIOUS CONFLICT IMMINENT.

TORONTO, ONT., March 28.—The all-government organ, in an article on the Northwest troubles, says: Yesterday's encounter, more particularly since it resulted in a victory for the half-breds, is no doubt beginning of a serious campaign. It is reported to be 15,000 adherents armed with Remington rifles, obtained from American traders with six American guns.

TROOPS READY FOR THE NORTHWEST

TORONTO, ONT., March 28.—The statement here continues unabated. From an early hour this morning the approaches to the drill-shed were crowded with people waiting with the expectation of seeing the departure of troops. The Royal Grenadiers were ordered at 8 o'clock and notwithstanding the early hour and the fact that the sergeants could not find time tonight to notify all the members of their companies, they turned out 300 strong. After they were dismissed the Queen's Own were mustered and showed a creditable turn out of 543 men.

MOROS OF ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT.

WINNEPEG, MANITOBA, March 28.—Further exciting rumors come from Carleton, which state that there was another skirmish and eleven men were killed. This is not confirmed. Gen. Middleton, Col. Hough and twenty-five officers and 680 men of the Ninth battalion left here at night and reached Quappelle this morning where they were joined by the fine detachment of field battery. It is understood in military circles that Gen. Middleton will not advance immediately with the troops but will await further developments. He was heard to remark that if the rebels mean to fight he will not advance without a stronger force.

TROOPS ORDERED FROM MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, P. Q., March 28.—The whole city volunteer force have received orders to hold themselves in readiness to proceed to the northwest. Most of the regiments will muster tonight for the purpose of stores being issued.

THE SITUATION GRAVE.

WINNEPEG, MANITOBA, March 28.—The indications are that the trouble is more serious than is generally known. A rumor is current that the rebels and their forces were forced to abandon after the skirmish, in which twenty-seven of the troops were killed.

TROOPS HASTENING TO THE SCENE.

TORONTO, ONT., March 28.—The government has taken vigorous measures to meet the emergency. The Winnipeg battalion of militia, 300 strong, with half the battery of artillery is now on the way to Quappelle, 328 miles west of Winnipeg, where several trails run north to the scene of the insurrection. Carleton being 205 from Quappelle. The police force at Battleford and Prince Albert number seventy and the garrison at Carleton is 300 strong. With the civilians, so that there are 370 men within striking distance of R-11 and 300 volunteers, with two Armstrong guns, six or seven days' travel away. In addition to this force the government has ordered the immediate dispatch of 800 Eastern troops to the spot. This brigade will consist of one hundred men from each of the two batteries of the Dominion artillery, 250 men from each of the two Toronto corps, the Queen's Own and the Grenadiers, and eighty men from the school of Gunners under the command of Col. Otter. Maj. Gen. Middleton, now on his way from Winnipeg to Quappelle, will take chief command of the whole body of troops. The men of Ontario will go by the Lake Superior route, but it will be necessary to transport them by sleighs over a gap of seventy miles of unimproved road. What will be the result pending the arrival of the troops remains to be seen. His first move, now that he has openly taken the field, will doubtless be to secure supplies by plundering the government stores at Hudson's Bay and other stores if he can, and to settle the Indians to join him, resisting the queen's authority. Much depends on the Indians. If they remain true short work will be made of the half breeds, but should any considerable number of them go over to the rebels, there are about 15,000 of them in whole Saskatchewan country, the resources of Canada will be taxed in earnest. There is good ground, however, for saying that up to the present time, none of the bands, except perhaps Bardy's, has shown signs of wavering.

HONEY GROVE.

A Driving Park—Farmers' Prospects.

HONEY GROVE, TEX., March 27.—The ex-members of the McKenzie Debating society are called to meet here Saturday, April 4, to arrange a programme for the reunion at the close of the present session of Honey Grove high school.

Quite an acquisition has been made recently by Mr. and Mrs. Percy White. It is a boy weighing eleven pounds. The dry-goods store of Joseph Kemper, known as the "red store," is advertised for sale at a bargain, with the statement that if not sold by April 1 the stock will be removed to Hope, Ark.

There was a masquerade carnival at the skating rink, last evening. The attendance was large. The receipts were about $200. Charley Wolcott, C. T. Short, T. U. Cole, Tom Reed and perhaps others, are arranging to open a driving park near town. Mr. Wolcott furnishes the ground and the others will prepare it for use. The object is for pleasure driving and training stock.

W. D. Wilkins has received the full amount of insurance on his property, which was burned last week. Others have received compensation for damages in the same fire. R. C. Bryan has not received his insurance yet, but will.

Farm work in this section is a little retarded by the frequent rains and the continued cool weather. Wheat reports are varied. Some say they have good prospects, others poor, and others have even plowed up their wheat. Reports are uniform that oats are very promising. On the whole the outlook of the farmers is cheering.

ABSTRACT VS. CONCRETE.

A Discussion, the Outgrowth of the Arlington Institute.

HANDLEVILLE, TEX., March 26, 1883. To the Editor of the Gazette.

In a recent number I saw an article from the pen of Prof. Hogg, in reply to certain strictures in a communication from one "Rusticus," concerning the institute held at Arlington. The professor, in taking "Rusticus" to task, states that on entering, "Prof. Hamby was speaking on the subject of arithmetic, and seemed uncertain whether the divisor was concrete or abstract."

As I failed to make myself clear by what I said on that occasion, and believing also that, what is written is mightier than what is said, I would like space enough in your paper to explain my position so there may be no uncertainty in the matter.

When Prof. Hogg and Col. Chamber entered the house, I was speaking of the terms in multiplication. That the multiplicand was a concrete number, the multiplier abstract, and the product of the same denomination as the multiplicand. I further stated that when the multiplier was very much greater than the multiplicand, the multiplicand was often used to multiply without affecting the product.

For example, what will 375 yards of cloth cost at seven cents per yard? Now, whatever can be said of these terms in multiplication can be said of them in division. In multiplication we have the factors and seek the product. In division we have the product (dividend) and one factor and seek the other. But the point is to which factor is the divisor. To divide by either factor gives the other. Divide by the multiplicand and your divisor is a concrete number. This is precisely true, as laid down by Prof. Noye in his reply to "Rusticus." Line a yard with line a yard, surface with surface, solid with solid, etc. This is exactly true whenever you divide the product (dividend) by the factor known in multiplication as the multiplicand.

For example, this same problem in multiplication can be utilized in division. Given 2625 cents to buy cloth at 7 cents per yard, how many yards of cloth can I buy? Here the product is divided by the multiplicand. The product is called the dividend, the multiplicand the divisor. But we want to give this problem under different conditions, sometimes. Given 2625 cents for 375 yards of cloth, what is the price of one yard? In this case, professor, what do you divide by? Undoubtedly by the abstract multiplier 375 yards; which gives you quotient 7 cents. This is in exact harmony with the mathematical truth that, to divide the product by one factor, gives the other. Now, while this was my explanation of the relation of these terms to each other, I further tried to explain that, by an "illegitimate" disquisition and a little philosophy, we could, logically, consider the multiplicand and product concrete, even when as stated, using the multiplicand as the multiplier, and by a parity of reasoning, we can, when dividing by the abstract (multiplier) conclude we have in effect divided by the quotient and found the real divisor; and, as the product has been divided, the multiplier the quotient, we further add to the complication by declaring the quotient is the divisor and the divisor is the quotient.

This is as near as I can recollect the substance of what I said on the occasion referred to, and I believe all who have carefully examined the matter will agree with me.

I feel a great interest in the success of the institute work. May it be the means of advancing the standard of education in both city and county to our very highest ideal.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Joe Mignon Thrown from the Hook and Ladder Truck.

A very serious accident occurred last night, at the corner of Main and Second streets, in which Joe Mignon of the Hook and Ladder company was thrown from the truck and badly hurt.

It seems that two false alarms were turned on during the evening. The first was turned on from box No. 6, at the City hall, and was caused by a general cry of "fire!" "fire!" in the eastern part of the city. The second alarm was turned on from box No. 25, on lower Main street. When this alarm sounded the Hook and Ladder team were hitched to the truck, and Joe Mignon in the absence of a more powerful man took the tiller. Joe is cool, of good nerve, and had handled the tiller before, but had no one to hold him on while handling the wheel. The horses were frisk and dashed up Second street at a rapid pace. In turning the corner in to Main street they were going very fast. The hind wheels of the truck ran into some holes in the street at this point, violently wrenching the truck and throwing Mignon high into the air. He fell on his head and when several members of the company reached him he was unconscious. He was at once carried to Dr. H. W. Moore's office where he soon partially revived, but again relapsed into a state of unconsciousness. The doctor said there had been a concussion of the brain but that he could not say just how serious the accident was. The injured man was taken to his room and was but little improved at last report, though it is believed he will recover in a short time.

When Mignon fell from the truck, the hind wheels became unmanageable without some one to guide them, and while the horses were still going at a rapid rate commenced a zigzag course and finally ran into the curb in front of the Fort Worth Grocer Co.'s place, where the horses were stopped. Another fireman took charge of the tiller, and the truck again dashed off in search of the fire, which could not be found. Considerable damage was done to the truck and the members of the company were very low-spirited over the whole affair when they returned to the city hall.

This accident has demonstrated a fact that should not be disregarded in the future. It shows that a regular tillerman is a necessity for the hook and ladder company. Without one who is able to handle it, the truck should not be taken from the city hall. Mignon could have managed the tiller, had it not been for the holes in the street, but a more powerful and well drilled man could have guided the wheels over them. Besides the tiller, I now given to any member of the company who may happen to be around when an alarm sounds and the lives of persons on the street are in danger in case the tillerman is thrown off the seat when going to a fire. It is almost a miracle that some one was not killed in the excitement last night.

The hook and ladder company should at once take some step to supply a permanent tillerman for their company.

Aladdin.

Mrs. Charles Benton is progressing rapidly with her Aladdin class and her pupils are as enthusiastic as she is over the coming entertainment. A reporter saw them rehearsing the other afternoon. Several hundred children were in the opera-house and swarmed all over the place. Young actors and actresses were very fine young actors, and there is no doubt but that the entertainment will be highly successful. The costumes for the play are said to be very fine and the little ones will live in "fairy land" during the week of the performances.

"Forget-Me-Not."

Los Angeles Herald.

The first appearance of Miss Nellie Boyd and her excellent company at the Grand opera-house last night was a decided success. While the audience was not as large as the merit of the attractions deserved, yet a very good audience listened to the rendition of that very great emotional drama "Forget-Me-Not." Miss Boyd in her delineation of the Parisian beauty, "Saphanie," was the perfect embodiment of a crafty, scheming woman, and in many of the situations gave marked evidence of high histrionic power, as was recognized by the intense admiration of the audience and their rapturous applause at the close of several scenes. We cannot overlook the splendid talents of Theodore Roberts in his delineation of Sir Horace Welby. Mr.

Roberts will, we believe, before the week ends, render himself deservedly popular in many of the roles laid down for him. Wm. Marble, in the character of an Italian prince, was very happy in the make-up as well as his portrayal. The Mrs. Foley of Ella Marble is worthy of particular mention as the character of a shrewish old maid. Clara Ralston, as Alice Verney, did not have a part that gave her an opportunity for display, but she made the most of it. The Italian detective of H. T. Loomis was well made up and very well played. The costumes of Mrs. Boyd were elegant, and her dress in the second act deserves more than a passing notice. It was an elegant silk of "old gold," cut en train, with a lovely cloak of the same material and bonnet to match, with the most exquisite white-lace parasol that we have ever seen, it presented the most pleasing and rich effect we have seen on the stage for a long time.

The Races.

The races of the North Texas racing circuit will commence at San Antonio, April 1; at Waco on the 7th, and in this city on the 14th inst. The sport promises to be first-class, as many horses, which have been in New Orleans all winter, will follow the circuit and after leaving Texas proceed North, taking in all the principal events of the season.

Capt. J. D. Reid will sell at private sale, the car and bench privileges and parties interested can consult with him in regard to these matters.

R. E. Hamilton, the well known pool seller of this city left for San Antonio last night. He will follow the circuit to its close.

Texas Scientific Chart Company of Fort Worth, Tex.

The board of directors of the above-named company, consisting of A. G. McJung, J. E. Martin, Iroy Dunklin, C. J. Stewart, F. P. Pruitt and B. F. Winfrey, have had a force busily engaged during the past fortnight preparing some sample copies as prospectus of the literary works which have been copyrighted as the "Annals of Part of Natural History and Chemistry," or "Laminated Nature," these sample outlines to be used by agents or canvassers in soliciting subscriptions for stock in this enterprise.

These works are drafted in charts, to be explained in keys, or books, the first-named subject symbolized from the lowest part of the animal kingdom up to the highest, through classes, sub-classes, orders, families, and genera, including radiates, cephalopods, ornithology, batology, apology, physiology, zoology, articulates and mollusks, and the second named work symbolizing the elements in classes, groups and compounds, also showing approximate colors, and the volumes together with a quantitative and qualitative analysis table.

The board at their meeting on Friday, the 27th, appointed a committee with authority to have a book of stock (of $5000 capital, consisting of 1600 shares) lithographed or printed at the best rates that can be secured, and ordered the payment of "some" accrued incidental expenses.

These works have been warmly endorsed by Prof. Lupton of Vanderbilt University, Dr. Burleson of the Baptist university of Waco, Tex., Prof. Rosevale of the Methodist Female college of the same city, Dr. King and A. J. Sampson of Scotland, Mo., the latter secretary of the Natural Historical society of that city; Dr. Hunt, president of the Natural Historical society of Cincinnati, together with several others of good literary attainments of different cities in the East, West and South, of whom future reference will be made by the board through these columns from time to time.

GRIM STARVATION.

Men, Women, Children and Stock Dying for Want of Food.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., March 28.—Information received from the suffering districts says that the people are in bad condition and on the verge of starvation. The people are asking for bread. The animals are starving to death. At many places strong men are begging for an ear of corn to keep soul and body together. The condition is distressing. In many portions of the suffering section many people gain their livelihood by running timber, but for a month there has been no rise in the rivers or the mountain streams, hence the people are suffering for food because no timber can be run. Unless a rise comes soon there will yet be much suffering. The people hold out well and try to keep the tale of their suffering from going abroad, but the time has come when hunger pinches them and they ask for food. In the northern tier of counties great suffering is experienced among the mountain farmers and lumbermen. Matters are truly distressing. The children and women eat parched corn when they can get it and are thankful. The winter has been severe. The people are poor and no work can be found in many places stock has died in large numbers.

TO TEXAS PHYSICIANS.

Letter from the President of the Texas State Medical Association.

BELTON, TEX., Jan. 21, 1883.

DEAR DOCTOR: Article XII of the by-laws of the State Medical Association makes it "the duty of the president, three months prior to each annual meeting, to notify, by circular, the profession of the state and county organizations throughout the state, and urge attendance." Be assured this is one of the most agreeable duties my official relation to the association enjoins.

The next meeting of our state association will take place in the city of Houston, beginning on the third Tuesday in April next, and continuing for four days. Your attendance is most earnestly desired. Not only is your presence desired, but your influence over every respectable graduate of medicine in the state, of your acquaintance, to induce him to become a member also, and thereby secure his active co-operation in promoting and advancing the great and time-honored work in which we are engaged. This appeal is made directly to you, to do all in your power to "organize the profession of the state in the most efficient manner possible; to encourage a high standard of professional qualifications and ethics, and promote professional brotherhood."

Article 2 of our constitution defines the eligibility for membership as follows: "There shall be only one class of members in this association; every regularly educated man within the limits of the state who is a graduate of a regular medical college, in good standing, and who adopts and conforms to the code of ethics of the American Medical Association shall be eligible to membership in this body." Hence the applicant should be able and prepared to satisfy the judicial council that he is a graduate of a medical college in good standing. Every physician in the state who is competent and willing to comply with the above requirements is most urgently and cordially invited to join the association.

We have been thus explicit in making the foregoing statements from the fact that this circular is intended for those who do not, as well as those who do, belong to the organization. We not only urge all to attend, but to prepare and present a well-digested paper or article, on some subject, so that it pertain to one of the following sections, or to any of the cognate branches of medicine:

Section 1. On Practice of Medicine, Materia Medica and Pathology.
Sec. 2. On Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children.
Sec. 3. On Surgery and Anatomy.
Sec. 4. On Medical Jurisprudence, Chemistry and Psychology.
Sec. 5. On State Medicine and Public Hygiene.
Sec. 6. On Gynecology.
Sec. 7. On Ophthalmology.
Sec. 8. On Dermatology.
Sec. 9. On Medical Botany.

It is the sincere wish of every true physician that the seventeenth convention shall surpass each of its predecessors in everything that tends to make such an occasion both interesting and profitable. Let us, then, urge you to attend, and that, too, with a determination to lend a helping hand of leaving nothing undone that would be calculated to further the beneficent work of scientific and practical medicine.

The eyes of millions are being turned toward our great state. Texas will soon be the grandest, the most brilliant star of all those that go to make up the galaxy of states of the American Union. She is rapidly advancing in all the elements that combine to make a great, prosperous and happy people. Her wonderful resources and marvelous developments are already astonishing and challenging the admiration of the civilized world. These facts being admitted—and who so bold as dare deny—shall we continue a reclusive life, professionally, and allow our noble vocation to lag behind? Nay, verily. Then we again ask every physician in the state, worthy of the name, to come to the front and perform at least a small part of his obligation and his duty in the premises.

While we are painfully aware of the fact that our state is abundantly supplied with quacks, charlatans and monte-banks, many of whom have been driven from other states in consequence of just and stringent laws enacted by intelligent legislators in behalf of the best interests of their constituents, and have thus been forced to seek refuge in our state because of no law restraining them from trifling with the lives of our citizens; we are also aware of another fact, that there are hundreds of well-educated and highly accomplished physicians in the whatever—either local, state or national. This ought not so to be.

We make this appeal in the name of your beloved state; we make it in the name of your Alma Mater; we make it in the name of science, truth and honor; we make it in the name of suffering humanity! We ask you to rise up in the dignity and majesty of a manhood worthy of the name and the cause, and lend your influence, your zeal, your knowledge, your enthusiasm in this more than laudable undertaking. Permit us to remind you that you owe it to the profession, to your patrons and to yourself. Come, then with your past experiences and observations; collect all the scattered official facts in your circle, arrange, classify and hang them up in the grand and glorious temple of truth, whose future cannot be "pictured in words, or shadowed forth in language."

We can make the volume of transactions for 1883 rich with the fruits of the labors of Texas physicians; a volume that will be admired and appreciated by every physician who has at heart the reputation of his state and the honor of his profession; a volume that will command the admiration and respect of every medical society in the United States. "He who does his duty sheds a light which makes other men see their duties."

An additional circular will be issued, soon after the committee of arrangements shall have perfected its programme. Yours very truly,

An Interesting Suit.

CHICAGO, ILL., March 28.—Suit was begun in the federal court here to-day against the Pennsylvania Railway company, to compel compliance with the law requiring that stock in transit be given five hours rest every twenty-eight hours on the road. This suit is understood to be at the instance of the American Humane society, and will be of special interest in the West to railroads and stockmen, as the society at its recent meeting in Pittsburgh resolved to hire attorneys in the principal cities where there are stock yards to prosecute violators of this law. This is the first case under the statute in the West.
